991.1 Modern Driver

This brochure documents the 991.1 in the Tej Drives garage: the newer, sharper, louder, more modern Porsche that sits beside the older 996 builds. It is not a how-to guide. It is a build snapshot - what has been changed, what those changes do for the car, and why this car has its own lane in the garage.

Role in the garage
The 991.1 is the modern driver: more refined than the 996 cars, but still modified enough to feel personal and alive.

Build personality
Sound, color, response, stance, wheel fitment, and road presence. The car is sharpened into a stronger modern street driver.

Visual identity
The Speed Yellow wrap and HRE wheels give the car a clear personality and make it instantly different from the darker, more understated cars in the garage.

Performance direction
The tune, exhaust, air filter, suspension work, HRE wheel setup, and tires are aimed at making the car feel more awake, planted, and visually complete.

Build Snapshot

The confirmed modifications and build identity of the 991.1 so far.

Build area	What is on the car	Build effect
Base car	Porsche 911 991.1	The newer-generation reference point in the Tej Drives garage.
Sound	SharkWerks exhaust	A more present flat-six voice with the kind of tone people notice before they ask what has been done.
Engine response	ECU tune	Sharper response and a stronger performance feel compared with the factory baseline.
Breathing	Performance air filter	Supports the intake side of the build and matches the tuned/exhausted direction.
Suspension	Suspension work	Sets the stance and road feel so the car looks and feels sharper than stock.
Wheels	HRE wheels	A major visual and performance-style upgrade that gives the 991.1 a more premium, driver-focused presence.
Tires	Performance tire setup	Connects the power, suspension, and wheel package to the road.
Exterior	Speed Yellow wrap	Turns the car into the loud visual character of the garage without needing an extreme body kit.

Sound + Response

The 991.1 build starts with the things a driver notices immediately: sound, response, stance, and grip. The SharkWerks exhaust, tune, performance air filter, suspension work, HRE wheels, and tires work together to make the car feel more personal and more alive than stock.

SharkWerks exhaust

The exhaust is the personality change. It gives the 991.1 a stronger flat-six voice and separates it from the quiet, polished factory feel.

Tuned character

The tune gives the car a more alert feel. The goal is not a dyno-sheet personality - it is a car that feels more responsive when driven.

Performance air filter

The air filter supports the breathing side of the build. It is a simple change, but it fits the sound-and-response direction.

Still street usable

The car keeps its modern-road personality. It is louder and sharper, but not built to become annoying on normal drives.

What visitors should understand

This 991.1 is not just wrapped yellow for attention. The build has a clear theme: make the modern Porsche feel more alive. Sound, throttle response, stance, HRE wheels, tires, and visual presence are the upgrades that change how the car comes across.

Suspension, Wheels + Tires

The 991.1 has more than sound and color. The suspension work, HRE wheels, and tire setup give the car its stance, road presence, and modern performance-driver look.

Suspension work

The suspension work gives the car a sharper stance and a more intentional driver-car feel than a stock 991.1.

HRE wheels

The HRE wheels are one of the biggest visual statements on the car. They make the 991.1 look more premium, more serious, and more complete.

Tire setup

The tires complete the wheel and suspension package. They matter because they define how the car puts response, grip, and confidence onto the road.

Overall stance

The car reads as modified without looking overdone. That balance is the point of the 991.1 build.

Speed Yellow Identity

The Speed Yellow wrap is the visual anchor of the 991.1. It changes the car from a clean modern 911 into the loudest visual piece in the Tej Drives garage.

<h2>Speed Yellow wrap</h2>	The color makes the car instantly recognizable. It gives the 991.1 a brighter, more modern role than the green 996.1 and the darker project-car feel of the 996.2.
----------------------------	---

Garage contrast The 996.1 feels older, rawer, and more analog. The 991.1 feels cleaner, newer, sharper, and louder visually.	Camera presence The yellow wrap reads well on video and photos. It gives the car a clear content role without needing overdone styling.
--	---

Modern-driver look The car has enough presence to stand on its own while keeping the 991.1 shape clean.	Brand fit It supports the Tej Drives idea: older Porsches, real roads, driver builds - with this car showing the newer side of the garage.

Short build description

The Tej Drives 991.1 is a Speed Yellow modern-driver build with SharkWerks sound, a tuned engine feel, performance air filter, suspension work, HRE wheels, and a performance tire setup. It is the cleaner, more refined Porsche in the garage - but with enough sound, stance, response, and visual presence to feel clearly modified.

Where It Fits In Tej Drives

Each car in the garage has a different job. The 991.1 is not trying to replace the 996 builds. It gives the channel a modern contrast point: newer chassis, sharper refinement, more polish, and a louder visual identity.

Compared with the 996.1

The 996.1 carries the analog, road-trip, older-911 feel. The 991.1 feels newer, cleaner, and more immediate.

Compared with the 996.2

The 996.2 is the project/mountain-build story. The 991.1 is already a complete-feeling modern driver with personality added.

What the 991.1 adds

A brighter look, HRE wheel presence, a stronger exhaust note, sharper stance, and a more polished driving experience.

Why it matters

It shows that Tej Drives is not only about fixing old cars. It is about making each Porsche feel more intentional.

Visitor read

This car is the bright, modern, more polished Porsche in the garage. The exhaust and tune give it attitude, the suspension and HRE wheels give it stance, the tires support the driver feel, and the Speed Yellow wrap makes it instantly recognizable.
